DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This is an L-shaped two story frame house, with a gable roof, that is similar to other houses on Locust Street of the same basic design. The main portion is intersected at right angles by a gabled wing that has a two story bay window on the front, and a pointed arched window in the attic. A one story porch, supported by rectangular columns, extends across the bay opposite this wing and around the east facade. The east facade is embellished by an oval window and an oriel window. The house has been altered by the addition of asphalt siding.

BUILDER/ARCHITECT

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This is an example of vernacular architecture of the late 19th or early 20th century. It is part of a group of large houses of this era on Locust Street; some of which are fairly plain, like this one, but others of which are more ornate. These houses have significance as a group of late 19th century homes, although many are in need of paint or rehabilitation. This street was probably originally quite attractive. With repairs of homes and replanting of trees, the street could be restored to its former beauty.
